

Why wear braces if you don't have to?

Your Smile, Only Better

Straighten Your Teeth Invisibly.

Why Choose Refine?

Refine Aligners offer a more desirable alternative to braces because they're virtually invisible and more comfortable to wear. You can even remove them for special occasions and photos. Refine is specifically designed to address minor corrections, and are an excellent alternative to traditional braces if your doctor determines that you are a good candidate for aligner treatment.

What is Different About Refine Compared to Other Aligner Brands?

Only Refine includes a finishing appliance that you will use near the end of your treatment to make final corrections and fix your bite, if needed. Aligner patients are often left with an "open bite" after aligner treatment; this means the posterior (back) teeth may not touch or align properly. This final step is simple and effective to correct any remaining discrepancies, leaving you with the beautiful smile you've always wanted.

Since you may need less trays to complete your treatment compared to other systems, Refine straightens teeth faster and can be less costly. Your doctor will give you a treatment plan for comparison. And, unlike "at-home" aligner delivery, you are seen by your doctor at regularly scheduled visits to make sure your treatment plan is on track.

How Does Refine Work?

Refine Aligners apply constant, gentle pressure that steadily move your teeth from where they are to where your doctor thinks they should be. Each aligner repositions your teeth a little further, getting you closer to your goal. Once the aligner you're wearing achieves the proper movement, it's time for the next in the series. Steadily, one Refine Aligner at a time, your teeth move into alignment.

How Do I Wear Refine?

This is the important part – it's best to wear your Refine Aligner at all times, removing it only to eat, brush and floss. Your doctor will prescribe your wearing schedule and determine when you are ready to move to the next aligner in the series. Total treatment time varies, depending on the type of alignment you need and how well you adhere to your prescribed wearing schedule.

As a rule, the more you wear your aligners, the faster you will see results and an improved smile!

Ask your doctor if the Refine Complete Aligner System is the right choice for you.
